OPPOSITION OF AT&T CORP. AND MEDIAONE GROUP, INC. TO MOTION TO CONSOLIDATE

Pursuant to Section 1.45(b) of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 1.45(b), AT&T Corp. and MediaOne Group, Inc. (hereinafter jointly "AT&T") hereby oppose the Motion to Consolidate ("Motion") filed April 11, 2000 by Consumers Union, Consumer Federation of America, and the Center for Media Education ("CU et al."). For the reasons set forth below, the Motion should be rejected.

First, the alleged facts that CU et al. claim necessitate the filing of this Motion are spurious.¹ CU et al. contend that a recent exchange of correspondence between AT&T and the

Commission regarding AT&T's post-merger subscribership levels and a further explanation of certain provisions of the Time Warner Entertainment ("TWE") limited partnership agreement demonstrate that "the Commission cannot fully consider the effects of [] the AT&T/MediaOne merger and the AOL/TW merger on the relevant markets and on each other with certainty unless it has all four parties before it."² What CU et al. fail to note, however, is that AT&T has already provided the Commission with the relevant information CU et al. claims is missing, and, indeed, had done so before CU et al. even filed the instant Motion with the Commission. Regarding its subscribership levels, AT&T filed a certification letter with the Commission on March 17, 2000 that provided a detailed analysis of AT&T's current subscribers as well as subscribers in MediaOne's and TWE's cable systems,³ and then filed a revised version of that letter on April 7, 2000.⁴ Regarding the TWE partnership agreement, AT&T had filed the agreement with the

³ See Ex Parte Letter from Douglas G. Garrett, Senior Regulatory Counsel, AT&T Broadband, L.L.C., to Deborah Lathen, Chief, Cable Services Bureau, filed in CS Docket No. 99-251 & MM Docket No. 92-264 (March 17, 2000).

⁴ See Ex Parte Letter from Douglas G. Garrett, Senior Regulatory Counsel, AT&T Broadband, L.L.C., to Deborah Lathen, Chief, Cable Services Bureau, filed in CS Docket No. 99-251 & MM Docket No. 92-264 (April 7, 2000). AT&T notes that the effect of the revised TWE subscribership level reported in the 4/7/00 filing was to lower AT&T's post-merger subscribership levels by over 300,000 subscribers. See id. at 2.

Commission on September 3, 1999,⁵ and provided the Commission with supplemental information regarding certain provisions of the agreement on April 7, 2000.⁶ Thus, the subscriber certification, as well as the TWE limited partnership agreement and AT&T's explication of the agreement -- the absence of which CU et al. claim necessitated its Motion -- were delivered to the Commission prior to the filing of the Motion.

Second, the legal predicate underlying the Motion is equally incorrect. CU et al. assert that the Supreme Court's decision in *Ashbacker Radio Corp. v. FCC*⁷ requires the Commission to consider the AT&T/MediaOne and AOL/Time Warner merger applications simultaneously because they are "mutually exclusive."⁸ CU et al.'s reliance on Ashbacker is misplaced. In the Ashbacker case, two applicants were seeking to use the same spectrum to operate their respective broadcast stations, so that one application could not be approved without necessarily depriving the other applicant of a hearing.⁹ Under Ashbacker, applications are "mutually exclusive" and thus subject to simultaneous consideration by the Commission only where "the grant of one application necessarily precludes another."¹⁰ The AT&T/MediaOne and AOL/Time Warner merger applications involve two different proceedings that present different sets of facts, and approval of one merger application would in no way "necessarily preclude" approval of the second application.

Third, CU et al.'s proposal to consider the two mergers simultaneously is unlawful and unworkable. As an initial matter, the Communications Act specifically directs the Commission to make individualized determinations on transfer of control applications. In particular, Section 309 of the Act provides that "the Commission shall determine in the case of each application filed with it . . . whether the public interest, convenience, and necessity will be served by the granting of such application["¹¹ The Commission may not, consistent with this provision, simply lump the two merger applications together for joint consideration.¹²

Even if the Commission were to accept CU et al.'s invitation to revisit every pending merger application every time a new merger application is filed, it would create a never-ending review process. AT&T's merger application has been under review for over nine months. That review process should not be extended further while the effects of a different, later-proposed merger are considered, and theoretically even longer should yet a third merger application be filed that assertedly has some effect on the two pending applications.

Finally, the concerns relative to the AT&T/MediaOne merger that CU et al. want reviewed in a consolidated merger proceeding¹³ have already been fully briefed.¹⁴ AT&T addressed these concerns in the four major pleadings it has filed on its merger application,¹⁵ as well as in voluminous ex parte documents. Similarly, CU et al. and other members of the public have had numerous opportunities to comment on every aspect of the merger. The Cable Services Bureau established a pleading cycle on the proposed merger application on July 23, 1999; invited comments on AT&T's November 24, 1999 filing regarding compliance with the revised cable ownership rules on November 30, 1999; invited sur-reply comments on AT&T's waiver request on January 13, 2000; and held a public forum on the merger on February 4, 2000. CU et al. have participated fully in all phases of this proceeding, including the public forum, and have also filed separate motions regarding various aspects of the merger. Given the lengthy and comprehensive assessment that already has taken place on all potential effects of the AT&T/MediaOne merger, there is absolutely no basis for CU et al.'s suggestion that the Commission now reconsider those effects.

¹⁵ See Public Interest Statement of AT&T Corp. and MediaOne Group, Inc., filed in CS Docket No. 99-251 (July 7, 1999); Reply Comments of AT&T Corp. and MediaOne Group, Inc., filed in CS Docket No. 99-251 (Sept. 17, 1999); Supplemental Comments of AT&T Corp. and MediaOne Group, Inc., filed in CS Docket No. 99-251 (Nov. 24, 1999); Supplemental Reply Comments of AT&T Corp. and MediaOne Group, Inc., filed in CS Docket No. 99-251 (Dec. 21, 1999).

CONCLUSION

AT&T's merger application has been under review for over nine months. It is time for the Commission to approve the merger so that the benefits of local telephony competition can be brought to millions of American consumers, not to turn back the clock and start anew based on CU et al.'s fanciful notions about "mutual exclusivity." AT&T respectfully urges the Commission to deny CU et al.'s Motion.
